DETAILED ACTION

1. This communication is in response to the amendment filed on November 8, 2002. Claim 69 has been amended. Claims 86-89 have been canceled. Claims 91-117 have been added. Claims 69-85 and 90-117 are present in the application.

Double Patenting

2. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b)

Art Unit: 3623

3. Claims 69-70, 80-81, 91-92, 94, 99-100, 102-104, 117 of Application No. 09/654,341 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1, 3-4, 6-7 of U.S. Patent No. 6,336,104, and although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because they recite elements that are substantially the same and that would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art.

Claims 69 and 103 of the present application are substantially the same as claim 1 of U.S. Patent No. 6,336,104 with the of the following:

a. Claim 1 of U.S. Patent No. 6,336,104 does not specifically recite a “credit card number”, instead claiming a “financial account identifier.”. Since a credit card is a well known type of financial account, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the at the time of the invention to use a credit card number as the financial account identifier in determining an installment plan because credit cards are used to determine credit worthiness of a consumer and their ability to pay back loans on installment

b. Claim 1 of U.S. Patent No. 6,336,104 does not specifically recite “ a POS terminal” and “a central controller” (i.e., a client-server architecture), instead claiming a stand-alone terminal. Official notice is taken that client-server architecture is well known in the computer arts. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill the art at the time of the invention to substitute the client server architecture for the stand-alone terminal because this would allowed less costly components to be deployed at the point-of-sale.

c. Claims 69 and 103 a of the present application (‘341) does not specifically disclose receiving an installment plan identifier defining an installment plan for payment of the purchase price, the installment plan identifier being received in response to at least one of the transmitted purchase price and financial account identifier (a credit card). However, since the purchase data is being transmitted from the central from the central controller (i.e. client server architecture), it implies that the purchase data has to be received by the POS (point-of sale terminal).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

4. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefore, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

5. Claims 69-85 and 90-117 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

As per claims 69 and 103, for a claimed invention to be statutory, the claimed invention must be within the technological arts and provide a concrete tangible result. The claimed invention does not fall within the technological arts because no form of technology is disclosed or claimed. The examiner notes that the disclosed and claimed invention is directed to nothing more than a human making mental computations and manually generating..., transmitting...

Therefore, 69-85 and 90-117 are deemed to be non-statutory. It should be noted that the specification discloses the use of various techniques to implement the steps recited in 69-85 and 90-117. For example, references are made to the use of a computer. Incorporating a computer into claims 69-85 and 90-117 would be limited to the technological arts and overcoming the 35 U.S.C. 101 rejection set forth. Appropriate correction is required.

Art Unit: 3623

Claims 70-102 depend on base claims 69 and claims 104-117 depend on base claim 103 and inherent same deficiency as the parent claims.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

a. IRI (JP60251498) discloses (Installment Payment Processing Method of Electronic Cash Register).

b. Nozawa (JP289000) discloses (Installment-Payment Information Processing Device).
